State expenditures would increase if offenders are incarcerated in state prisons for longer periods of time. The average expenditure to house an adult offender was $25,087 in FY 2001. Individual facility expenditures ranged from $18,520 to $54,465. (This does not include the cost of new construction.) If offenders can be housed in existing facilities with no additional staff, the average cost for medical care, food, and clothing is approximately $1,825 annually, or $5 daily, per prisoner.

On average between FY 1997 and 2001, one person a year was committed to a Department of Correction (DOC) facility for the Class B felony noted above and 24 people a year were committed for the Class C felony.

Explanation of State Revenues: No change would likely occur in state revenue as a result of this bill since criminal fines and court fees are the same for either Class C or B felonies.

Explanation of Local Expenditures:

Explanation of Local Revenues: No additional revenues would be expected since the court fees for Class C and Class B felonies are both $120.
